

As a Manager with The Tax Institute at H&R Block, Alison Flores leads a tax content team responsible for developing and managing tax content for individuals, small business taxes, non-profits, or estate and gift taxes. The team works to ensure the publications are accurate, insightful, and easy to understand.

She stays on the cutting-edge of tax laws and regulations, offering recommendations that help tax professionals and taxpayers navigate the ever-evolving landscape. Her work is fueled by relentless curiosity and a commitment to excellence, ensuring that every client receives top-notch guidance and support.

Alison holds a Juris Doctor (JD) degree from the University of Kansas and a bachelor's degree in English and history from Bethel College-North Newton.